License-less Skateboarder

It was a normal day in Echo Creek, and a little girl cried her heart out as a peculiar figure approached her in a skateboard. This figure was pretty much Jackie Lynn-Thomas, only wearing a helmet and visor alongside her usual outfit.

"What's the problem?" asked Jackie.

"The tree captured Mr. Mittens!" answered the little girl, pointing at the top of the tree.

A white cat stood at the marked point, obviously terrified of his current situation. Jackie got off the skateboard and climbed up to the top, taking the cat with herself before climbing back down and handing it to the relieved owner.

"Thanks, mysterious-"

Jackie had already left, leaving behind the bewildered child.
